

State Official Elector Addresses

In article 1, section 9 of the constitution bars office holders from accepting "any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever from Any King, Prince or foreign state." This is relevant as trump has declared that he will not sell his business and create a blind trust. Trump's businesses, foreign and domestic, are receiving such payments. Trump's new hotel in Washington, DC has actively sought emoluments for trump through payments from foreign governments for use of the hotel. He is in violation of the United States' constitution. Now every attorney general And elected official takes an oath to office affirming that they will abide by and affirm the constitution of their state and of the united stated of America. They have an absolute obligation, through the elected office they hold, to reject trump as a candidate. Maybe they need to be reminded of this. Remind them that they have an oath to office that supersedes their obligation to their party or to the electoral college. Cite the portion of my text about the constitution and the violation. Finally, copy the email to a member of the media. Look up someone at the Washington post, New York Times etc. This will undoubtedly make them think that the media will scrutinize their vote.
